

Sarah wins State cook-off

AN EASTERN Goldfields College student with a flair for cooking will represent Western Australia at the national World Skills National competition next year.

Sarah Cotter was recently crowned the winner of the State section at the World Skills Competition in Cookery, while her classmate Tristan Taaf finished fourth. EGC principal Dan McCormack said the school was very proud of the two students.

"We're very pleased Tristan and Sarah have done so well," he said.

World Skills Australia holds competitions around the country for school students who study a Vocational Education and Training subject and selected students can test their talents against their peers on a regional and national level. Sarah and Tristan travelled to Fremantle for the State competition where they had to prepare a three-course meal for four people in a set time.

Sarah will represent WA next year in the national competition in Brisbane.

Taste of success: Teacher Liz Sloan and Sam Simms with Sarah Cotter who was recently crowned State winner in the cookery section at the World Skills competition.